

Learn Option Strategies to Profit & Hedge Into Earnings

When a company releases earnings, they provide the recent financial performance and give a guidance for the next quarter's performance.

A mistake of new investors and traders is to buy a stock just ahead of its earnings report because it's "acting right."

This can be a volatile and profitable time using the right options strategy

In this short course, we will explain and show the options strategies to profit and hedge into earnings.

And, what if you have bullish swing or position trade on?

Earnings are looming and you want to protect your position against an adverse gap.

But how to do it using options – objectively – per your risk profile?

This session will bring clarity to what confuses the majorities.

- Learn:
- How to analyze your positions and decide how to best protect your profits
 - The option strategies to hedge stocks into earnings using Master Trader Strategies
 - How to profit into earnings using the right options
 - How to select the proper strategy using calls or puts, and whether to be a buyer or seller
 - Collars to protect profits in a range for no cost
 - We will scan for new trade setups and discuss what to look
